CALL FOR REPUBLICAN SENATORIAL CONVENTION.

To the Republicans of Mason and Lewis Counties, Ky.: At a meeting of the Committee of the Thirty-second District, held in Vanceburg on Tuesday, August 20th, 1907, it was ordered that a delegate convention be held in the city of Vanceburg, Ky., on the 16th day of September, 1907, for the purpose of nominating a candidate for Senator for said District.

It is ordered that mass conventions be held to select delegates to the District Convention in each county on Friday, September 18th, 1907, at 1 p. m., standard time, at the county seat of Mason county and the county seat of Lewis county, to select 24 delegates in Lewis county and 20 delegates in Mason county to attend the District Convention at Vanceburg.

It is further ordered that the County Committee in each county shall give due notice of same.

GEORGE E. DUNBAR, Chairman.

W. D. COCHRAN, Chairman.

A. H. Parker, Secretary.

A FEW desperate politicians, political adventurists, are largely responsible for the manipulation of the party machinery by means of which the Democratic party of Louisville repudiates the work done by BINGHAM and his colleagues, and name TYLER for Mayor, with a machine ticket behind him.

The Tyler ticket will have neither party support nor public approval. It stands for nothing that either Louisville or the Democratic party wants at this time. The people have no part in it. The voice of the voter has been stifled in the Democratic primary, called under orders from the Seelbach conference.

After that demonstration it was said the Democratic State Central Committee would act in Louisville as it had acted in Kenton, and take steps to have here a fair primary.

It did not so act, and the responsibility for inaction must be placed with Auditor HAGER, who wants to be Governor.

In the state primary last year Mr. HAGER had the hearty support of the Louisville machine. After getting the nomination he did not dare refuse any demand it made or oppose any course the Louisville machine marked out for itself or for the party in the state.

A fair primary in Louisville would have resulted in the nomination of the Bingham ticket. Had Mr. HAGER supported the demand for a commission to supersede the Vreeland Committee, a primary would have been held, but no such support came.

The state will be made to understand Mr. HAGER's responsibility for the Louisville machine. His success means the supremacy of the Louisville machine in state politics—a thing Kentucky will no longer tolerate.

It is too late now for any effective action to save the Democratic ticket in Louisville. The wreckers of the party have had their way too long. They have sinned away the day of grace and must now face the day of judgment, when they will be arraigned by an outraged people.

A machine repudiated here at home must not be established in power at Frankfort.—Louisville Evening Post.

BEAT THIS IF YOU CAN.

"Speaking of warm winters," said a subscriber who visited the office of the Lewiston Journal, "do you recall the winter of 1882?

In that winter I went to school from December until March barefooted, with nothing on but linen pants and a cotton shirt. And it was so hot sometimes during recess that I took off my shirt.

In that winter, Christmas day I picked eight quarts of ripe strawberries in a field opposite my father's house in the town of Turner, and I nearly had a sunstroke.

It was so warm that winter they forgot to hold the annual state legislature at Augusta." The faithful chronicler added that he slept all winter without bed clothes and the mosquitoes bit savagely.

COUNCIL PROCEEDINGS

Council met in called session last night, Mayor Stalcup presiding and all members present.

In compliance with a request from the Board of Education, a resolution was adopted authorizing the sale of $30,000 worth of new school building bonds, that amount being sufficient for this year's requirement. It was ordered that bonds numbered from 1 to 60 be advertised and sold at a value not less than par, sale to take place Tuesday, September 24th, after being advertised for ten days in DAILY LEDGER and Bulletin.

The Street Paving Inspection Committee reported that 40 yards in Second street and 60 yards in Third street—at various points in said streets—needed to be raised and repaired. Engineer Sanborn was instructed to notify the Contractors to attend to the matter at once, otherwise the city would repair the streets at the expense of said Contractors.

The matter of continuing the big sewer in Market street to the South side of Fourth street—a distance of 400 feet—was referred to Committee and as to size of sewer pipe, 18 or 24 inches, was a matter for the city engineer to decide.

The question of natural gas was broached and referred to special Committee.

Adjourned.

A boating party of four persons, two men and two women, were drowned at Spring Garden, a lake near Baltimore. They were missing since Friday night.

HIS FINAL FLING

By W. C. HOWEY

(Copyright, by Daily Story Pub. Co.)

Hyland Flynge was an Adonis and a dipsomaniac. He drank everything—drank all the time. He went to sleep with a toddy and awakened for a gin fizz. His income was generous and his thirst was commensurate. His money paid the rent, light, license and labor bills of several flourishing saloons in his city. But for Hyland Flynge and his full-grown thirst the saloon owners might have passed into bankruptcy.

Not that Hyland Flynge did not know his weakness and seek to avoid it. His friends tried to reform him and Hyland tried to reform himself. He took the pledge, took the gold-cure, took the entire menu of reform from soup to demi-tasse. But he always took a relapse as a chaser to his reform.

There was but one thing that Hyland Flynge loved as he did his liquor. That was his beauty. Generous nature had bestowed upon Hyland a face and figure designed for a god. The best tailors, the best hatters, the most pains-taking valet that money could procure, set off these charms with all that was good in their arts.

And Hyland Flynge was proud. And Hyland Flynge was vain. Hyland Flynge loved his beauty almost as much as the fabled Narcissus. Which led to the undoing of said Hyland Flynge, just as it did with Narcissus.

One morning as the young gentleman sat sipping his eye-opener while his valet was dressing him for the day, Mr. Flynge casually glanced at his mirror.

He dropped his glass. Horrors! A blue vein showed in his faultlessly shaped Grecian nose! Hyland hurried into his clothes and motored to his physician. Said physician looked grave, played with one set of his gray whiskers, wrote a prescription, and separated Hyland Flynge from a small portion of his income. He said the vein would go away.

Hyland sped to the nearest consolation parlor to take something for his nerves.

Next day there were two blue veins. Mr. Flynge repeated the act of the previous morning. Only he took a little more for his nerves. The valet put Hyland to bed that night and many succeeding nights. For the amount of liquid consolation that Hyland sought in those days was almost sufficient to float the pacific squadron.

One day Hyland sobered up.

When he sought his glass, that beautifully chiseled Grecian nose resembled a Bavarian summer sausage.

Hyland Flynge fainted. He was revived with water. Reason told Hyland that, according to the law of cause and effect, it was red liquor that led to the red nose. So Hyland reserved a seat on the water-wagon, and, as for irrigating he stopped. But said nose did not stop. Hyland took a trip to Europe. He sought the celebrated surgeon, Dr. Ficksum, and laid his case, likewise his nose before the scientist.

"Amputate or you die," said one, Ficksum, M. D.

"But I cannot live without a nose," said the mutilated Adonis.

An attendant hesitatingly suggested that it would mean a great saving in linen and laundry, but Hyland squelched him with a snort that inflated his proboscis like a toy balloon.

"I will give you a new nose," said Dr. Ficksum. "Science does all things. I will graft a new nose, beautiful as ever on the face, if—if you'll give a finger for it."

Flynge thankfully remarked that he'd gotten "two fingers" so often that the loss of one wouldn't count. So the operation took place. The flesh of one finger was grafted from Hyland's hand to his face. It was shaped gradually. It grew beautifully. In a few months one Hyland Flynge blossomed out with a new hand-made nose. As a thing of beauty it would have been a joy forever—but to proceed.

Hyland Flynge rode securely on the water wagon until one day when an accommodating stranger soaped the seat, Hyland fell off the wagon with a thump. Before he got home that night he repeated the process of falling many times.

When he awakened, late the next day, he saw lots of things he didn't know were in the room before. He emptied a pitcher of ice water and then dragged himself to his mirror.

Horrors!

The nose was there. It wasn't red a bit. Its shape was perfect.

MAN FROM MAYSVILLE

Was Proud of King Edward's Admiration for His Beautiful Wife—Divorce Proceedings

The Cincinnati Enquirer of Sunday publishes the following dispatch from Maysville: Ganger Lou Brown, of the Internal Revenue Service, whose petition for divorce has attracted wide attention because of the prominence of the parties in this state, and the fact that King Edward, of England is said to have figured in the case, was seen here today by an Enquirer representative, and he talked frankly about the affair, though expressing regret that it had been given such wide publicity.

Fifteen years ago Mr. Brown was a prominent member of Society in Covington, Ky. His father was for years connected with the L. and N. Railroad and was well known. Social engagements took Mr. Brown to Lexington, Ky., where he met Miss Johnson, the beautiful daughter of Claude M. Johnson. He won her hand and shortly thereafter the parents of the bride moved to London, England. Mr. and Mrs. Brown went along, but after three years' residence abroad Mr. Brown returned alone. Soon thereafter divorce proceedings were instituted by Mr. Brown, and the case has lain dormant for a long time. For the sake of his child, now 11 years old, Mr. Brown has kept quiet.

Mr. Brown's account of the King Edward episode is as follows:

The manager of the Criterion Theater in London was a personal friend of Mr. Brown, and when he learned that King Edward would attend, an invitation was sent Mr. and Mrs. Brown, and they accepted. A throng of elegantly-dressed women greeted the King, and as he viewed the audience from the royal box he was evidently struck by the beauty of Mrs. Brown and leveled his glasses at her repeatedly. Mrs. Brown did not notice the King's glance, but Mr. Brown did, and was proud of the attention shown her. He twirled his wife about the incident, but she only laughed and the subject was dismissed. King Edward did not request an introduction to Mrs. Brown, and there was no outburst of jealous rage on the part of Mr. Brown.

The divorce proceedings instituted by Mr. Brown will be pressed, and no offer of reconciliation will be entertained. However, he has no desire to pose as an "humble Kentuckian leading the simple life in the rural districts while Mrs. Brown follows after the strenuous in London."

READ THIS AND PROFIT THEREBY!

This is a trying time of the year. Many discomforts arise from the heat. The best way to be comfortable is by bathing often, at least twice daily, and by using a liberal quantity of talcum powder. By bathing often one keeps the skin clean and the pores open, thereby allowing the entire body to "breathe freely," which means perfect health.

The best soap to use for the bath and toilet is Picard's Complexion Soap, a non-injurious, healthful soap.

Talcum powder keeps the skin cool, relieves heat rash, stops chafing and is an excellent toilet requisite. We have a number of kinds.

SPRINGDALE.

Mrs. John Will Tully of Lewis county visited relatives here Thursday.

A great many of our citizens attended the Manchester Fair last week.

Mrs. Ross Thompson came up from Newport and spent a few days with old friends here.

Mr. John Little and his mother, Mrs. C. M. Little of Cleveland, Ohio, are guests of relatives here.

Miss Delta Goodwin, after attending the Institute in Maysville came up Friday and will begin the Pleasant Hill School, Monday.

Mrs. Vincent Perkins of Chicago and Miss Eliza Perkins of Tollesboro were pleasant guests of Mr. and Mrs. C. C. Degman, Friday.

John Wesley Young is here on a short furlough from the Confederate Home near Louisville, he claims it is the finest home of them all.

Mr. J. T. Goodwin, our popular young mail carrier is improving his vacation by hauling rock and laying a sidewalk in front of his handsome new cottage on Otto street.

Prof. Clifford B. Martin left Saturday for his home in Louisville, after a week's visit with Mr. and Mrs. Degman at Maplewood and Mr. and Mrs. P. F. Martin in Flemington county.

Human people are ever anxious to make protest against oppressive cruelty, whether to man or beast. They are always filled with righteous indignation at cruelty to the patient, long-suffering horse. Last Sunday was an unusually warm day, humidity prevailed. Our citizens were resting on coolest porches or under the trees. Suddenly down the pike and into our quiet town rushed two men in a buggy, one of them was bare-headed and waving his hands and vociferating in a way that plainly showed he was from a place where the lid was off. The indignation however, was produced by the condition of the helpless little sorrel horse they were driving. It was covered with its foaming sides. Its eyes were bulging with fatigue and terror, with a whoop and a "ge long there" they wheeled and galloped away toward Maysville, a distance of ten or more miles and the Plumville mountain with its coarse rock on the way. The women wanted to have the heartless couple arrested, but the men as usual, said, "Oh, well, what's the use? Couldn't do anything with them if we did." Is there any law against such things? If there is, whose duty is it to enforce it.

MARSE HENRY DREAMS A DREAM

Sunday's Louisville Courier-Journal.

The Editor of The Courier-Journal had a dream the other night. He dreamt that he died and was whisked off to the regions below. Old Nick met him at the outer door and extended a most hospitable welcome. "We've been looking and waiting impatiently for you," says he. "Some of the boys were beginning to be afraid that you were not coming, but that they would keep you in the shop above; but I told 'em to cheer up! You see I know that sometimes they take pity on us and send us a good man. Why! your friends'll be truly delighted."

"Who's here?" was timidly asked.

"They are all here," said Satan. "There's old Grover and John G. Carlisle and Teddy, and—"

"Get any Kentuckians?"

"Plenty of 'em! There's Governor Beckham and Colonel John Whallen and Aaron Kohn and Richard Knott—why, bless you!—when I get tired of whooping 'em up and want a little recreation, I leave Dick in charge, and feel perfectly safe the fire won't go out till I get back."

Then we entered. The place was fitted up elegant—just like the Buckingham Theater, with Summer Garden attachment, which they called the Red City. Lum Simons stood at the gate taking tickets, and when he saw the new-comer he cried, "Hooray," and said, "you pass in free."

It was a fine sight inside. All sorts of people and politics and religions, Democrats and Republicans, and Methodists and Presbyterians and Episcopaliasts. From every bough swung a crook, or a thief. Some were marked "Louisville" and a few "Fusionist."

"Here," says Satan, "we reverse the earthly rule. We honor perfidy and pharisaism above all things, because they are so energetic and send us so many recruits. Common politicians we string up to dry."

"But, your Satanic Majesty, where is Mayor Bingham?" was asked.

"Oh," says Satan, "he's a Baptist."

"What has that to do with it?"

"Don't you know," says he, with a kind of awe in his tone, "that the Baptists are a very exclusive congregation and don't like to be mixed up either in their drinks, or their damnation with other denominations? Come with me and I'll show you."

Then he led his wondering visitor through a long, dark, corridor, which he said was called the Vale of Prohibition, to a small, well-lighted vestible hung round with portraits of Lorenzo Dow and Tom Watson and Hoke Smith and Carrie Nation—"She's a Kentucky girl," he said triumphantly as we passed her—and then he lifted up a trap-door and pointed to a pit blazing with light—"There are the Baptists," said he solemnly, "in close communion."

We looked, and sure enough it was as he said, there they were holding a Long Run Convention, every man of them a red-nosed angel—with Dr. M. P. Hunt presiding, the Reverend Mr. James Van Arsdale in the act of offering a set of resolutions the purport of which ran, "We'll make Kentucky as dry as Hell and Maine."

AILING WOMEN

How Many Perfectly Well Women Do You Know?

Mrs. W. S. Ford of 1938 Lansdowne St., Baltimore, Md. writes:

Dear Mrs. Pinkham:

"For four years my life was a misery to me. I suffered from irregularities, suppression, terrible dragging sensations and extreme nervousness. I had given up all hope of ever being well again when Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound was recommended. It cured my weakness and made me well and strong."

Miss Grace E. Miller, of 1213 Michigan St., Buffalo, N. Y. writes:

Dear Mrs. Pinkham:

"I was in a very bad condition of health generally; irritable, cross, backache and suffered from a feminine weakness. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, cured me after all other medicines had failed."

What Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound did for Mrs. Ford and Miss Miller it will do for other women in like condition. Every suffering woman in the United States is asked to accept the following invitation. It is free, will bring you health and may save your life.

Mrs. Plakham's Invitation to Women.

Women suffering from any form of female weakness are invited to promptly communicate with Mrs. Pinkham, at Lynn, Mass. From the symptoms given, the trouble may be located and the quickest and surest way of recovery advised. Out of her vast volume of experience in treating female ills Mrs. Pinkham probably has the very knowledge that will help you. Her advice is free and always helpful.

When the Concordia passed up from Natchez to the Arkansas river her officers told of an unusual accident on the vessel while taking on a levee camp below Vicksburg that cost two lives. A Negro roustabout fell into the river while he was assisting in taking on a scupper. The man was carried down by the current and was swept toward the stern of the boat. Another Negro ran aft to render aid to the man in the water and while he was leaning over to grab the man in the water he was struck by the heavy pitman, the big rod driving the sternwheel, and instantly killed. The roustabout who fell overboard was drowned. The boat wheel was turning as usual to keep her

IT'S YOUR KIDNEYS.

Don't Mistake the Cause of Your Troubles. A Maysville Citizen Shows How to Cure Them.

Many people never suspect their kidneys. If suffering from a lame, weak or aching back they think that it is only a muscular weakness; when urinary trouble sets in they think it will soon correct itself. And so it is with all the other symptoms of kidney disorders. That is just where the danger lies. You must cure these troubles or they may lead to diabetes or Bright's disease. The best remedy to use is Doan's Kidney Pills. It cures all ills which are caused by weak or diseased kidneys. Maysville people testify to permanent cure.

W. H. Paul, carpenter by trade, living at 333 East Third street, Maysville, Ky.: says:

"I value Doan's Kidney Pills as highly today as I did when I first used them in 1899. I got a box and used it for a pain in my back and other evidences of a disordered condition of the kidneys which had given me much trouble for two years or more. This remedy acted promptly and I was soon cured. I did not notice any of the difficulties until a year ago. I again procured Doan's Kidney Pills and all symptoms of the trouble were quickly and thoroughly removed. Since then I have not noticed any signs of trouble of any kind arising from my back or kidneys. I most cheerfully re-endorse Doan's Kidney Pills for they are certainly worthy of recommendation."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents a box. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, N. Y., sole agents for the United States.

Remember the name—Doan's—and take no other.
